Algonquin Receives $148,000 Bike Path Grant

The Village of Algonquin has received $148,314 in grant funding to establish a 0.142-mile trail connecting Armstrong Street to the existing Prairie Trail. The “Scorched Earth Bicycle Path” is designed to fill in the gap between the bike trail system and the highly frequented Algonquin Makers Park and the Old Town Algonquin historic district.

“This will be a great connection off of the Prairie Trail that improves accessibility to regional destinations in Algonquin” said Village President John Schmitt. “The recent pedestrian and bicycling improvements in our Old Town district, coupled with progress towards a regional bike-share program, will be a very effective tool for economic development in the area.”

A trail connection is planned at the east end of Armstrong Street to connect to the Prairie Trail

The McHenry County Conservation District Prairie Trail is a 26.6-mile trail which travels from Algonquin to the Wisconsin state line. To the south, this trail connects to the Fox River Trail, which connects users from Algonquin south to Aurora.

Funds for the Bicycle Path Grant Program, which is administered by the Illinois Department of Natural Resources, are for the acquisition of land or development of facilities for bicycle paths. Funding comes from a percentage of motor vehicle title fees. A construction schedule will be set at a future date.

Road Construction Update

Please see below for project information and be sure to visit us online at www.algonquin.org/construction for updates:

Sleepy Hollow Road: In early August, the project transitioned on-schedule from Stage 1 to Stage 2, allowing crews to reopen the section of roadway between Longmeadow Parkway and Wynnfield Drive, in front of Westfield Community School. Crews are now shifting focus to two new sections of roadway with detours in place from Wynnfield Drive north to County Line Road and from Longmeadow Parkway south to Grandview Drive. The final layer of asphalt for the entire Sleepy Hollow Road Rebuild project will be installed when Stage 2 is complete. Construction is expected to be completed in November 2019.

Longmeadow Parkway: Construction continues for various sections of Longmeadow Parkway east of White Chapel Lane to Illinois Route 62. Mechanically stabilized earth retaining walls and bridge beams have been installed near Illinois Route 31 while work continues on the new piers, abutments and retaining walls for the new bridge over the Fox River. Major construction activity is currently estimated to be completed by the winter 2020/2021. For more information, please visit www.co.kane.il.us/dot.

Randall Road: As of September, the Randall Road project is approximately 10 percent complete. Work will continue this fall on storm sewer installation, pedestrian tunnel construction (south of Bunker Hill/Huntington Drive), and curb and gutter installation. Construction is currently estimated to be completed by summer 2021. For more information about this project, please visit www.randallroad.info.
